David A. McChesney (D. Andrew McChesney)
(Past President) Treasurer, Web-master, Newsletter Editor

Answering to Dave, D. Andrew McChesney served twenty-two years as a US Navy aviation electronics technician. He has a lifelong interest in the age of sail and enjoys science fiction, combining the two genres in The Stone Island Sea Stories. He serves as Treasurer and Web-Master, and edits SASP NEWS for Spokane Authors and Self-Publishers. He serves as Treasurer and edits the Inland Northwest Corvair Club's REAR ENGINE REVIEW.

Now retired, he resides in Spokane, Washington with his wife Eva, a Blue Quaker Parrot named Stormie, and a miniature dachshund named Coco. He is a longtime fan of the Seattle Mariners and the Seattle Seahawks. Both Dave's Corvairs have found other homes, and he still hopes to purchase a winning lotto ticket.

Beyond the Ocean's Edge: A Stone Island Sea Story

B008TXC332 (Kindle) B0BTRTCJZ3 (pb)

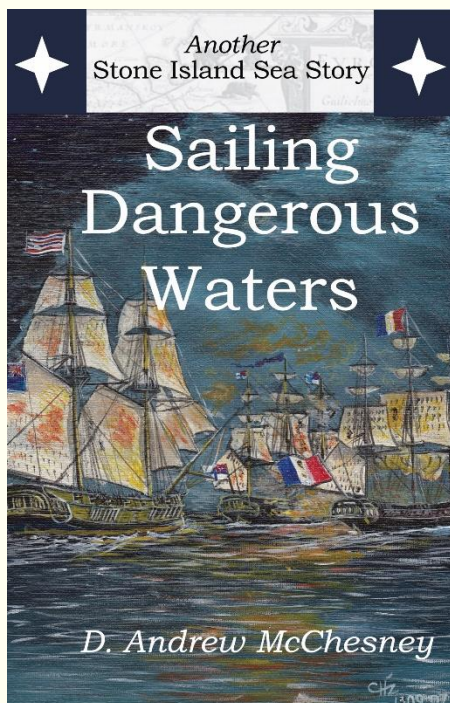

In the first of the Stone Island Sea Stories, author D. Andrew McChesney takes the reader Beyond the Ocean's Edge. At the beginning of the nineteenth century, during the Peace of Amiens, Royal Navy Lieutenant Edward Pierce and the crew of HMS Island Expedition sail in search of an island that can't be found unless you already know how to get there. Sail headlong into mistaken identities, naval battles, strange truces, dangerous liaisons, international intrigue, superstition, and ancient prophecies

Darnahsian Pirates: The Third Stone Island Sea Story

09FFJSSGC (Kindle) B09BC9P8WL (pb)

Having returned to England and reuniting with Evangeline, Edward Pierce once again sails beyond the ocean's edge, accompanied by his beloved and two additional vessels. At Stone Island, they despair to find her father absent. Pierce now embarks across dangerous waters, leading a combined naval expedition charged with rescuing several Vespican governors held for ransom by the Darnahsian Pirates. Among them is Harold Smythe, Evangeline's beloved Papa.
