David A. McChesney (D. Andrew McChesney)
(Past President) Secretary, Web-master, Newsletter Editor

Long fascinated with the age of sail and the great sailing navies, D. Andrew McChesney served in the modern US Navy as an aviation electronics technician. After a twenty-two year career he revived and revised a story first written in high school. Beyond the Ocean's Edge: A Stone Island Sea Story was published in May 2012. The sequel, Sailing Dangerous Waters: Another Stone Island Sea Story was published at the end of 2013 and work continues on the third. He once again edits the Rear Engine Review, the Inland Northwest Corvair Club's monthly newsletter. An essay, Tennis Balls and Broadsides won first place in the initial Author! Author! Periodic Awards for Expressive Excellence, and was published in Gray Dog Press' Spoke Write. Sailing Dangerous Waters: Another Stone Island Sea Story placed second in the Author! Author! Great First Pages Contest.

Now retired, he resides in Spokane, Washington with his wife Eva, a Blue Quaker Parrot named Stormie, and a miniature dachshund puppy named Coco. Both Dave's Corvairs have found other homes, and he still hopes to purchase a winning lotto ticket.

Beyond the Ocean's Edge: A Stone Island Sea Story B008TXC332

In 1802 Royal Navy Lieutenant Edward Pierce is on half pay during the Peace of Amiens. He gains command of a vessel searching for a lost, legendary island. When found, Pierce and crew discover the island exists in an entirely different world. Exploring around Stone Island, HMS Island Expedition sails headlong into mistaken identities, naval battles, strange truces, dangerous liaisons, international intrigue, superstition, and ancient prophecies. Detained by the equivalent of Great Britain, Pierce struggles to free ship and crew. Despondent over surrendering and possibly never seeing Evangeline again, Pierce's discovers new friends working to liberate him and his crew.

Sailing Dangerous Waters: Another Stone Island Sea Story

B00HF9Y05K

Freed from captivity at the hands of the Tritonish Government, Pierce and the men of HMS Island Expedition want nothing more than to return to their own world and England. Pursuit by rogue Gallician frigates, needed maintenance on the schooner, diplomatic endeavors on behalf of newly annexed Stone Island, and an encounter with an insanely jealous Tritonish frigate captain, all delay their departure for home. In this world, a journey half way around the globe is complicated by one powerful storm after another. Disbelief expressed by those hearing of his voyage, questions concerning his sanity, an encounter with a mysterious French commerce raiding corvette, and a return to Portsmouth following the arrival of news concerning Trafalgar further block Pierce's long anticipated reunion with Evangeline.
