J. B. Rivard

Almost everyone is familiar with the illustrations in Alice's Adventures in Wonderland. However, the number of illustrated novels published--for adult readers--declined steadily from the beginning to the middle of the 20th century, although not for lack of popularity. Illusions of Magic dares a return to the edgy, swirling arts of the illustrated story, with pen and ink illustrations by the novel's author, Joseph B. "J. B." Rivard, supplementing this exciting story.

As a young child, Rivard began drawing by copying newspaper comics. In his teens, he drew illustrations for his high school's award-winning yearbook. He attended the Chicago Academy of Fine Arts and his artworks have appeared in more than fifty juried exhibitions, earning many prizes and awards. He's an artist-member of the Salmagundi Club of New York City.

Rivard's writing draws on wide experience--he served in the U.S. Navy, graduated from the University of Florida, worked as a newspaper reporter, a magazine writer, and on the engineering staff of a U.S. National Laboratory where he wrote and co-authored many technical papers listed on Google Scholar.

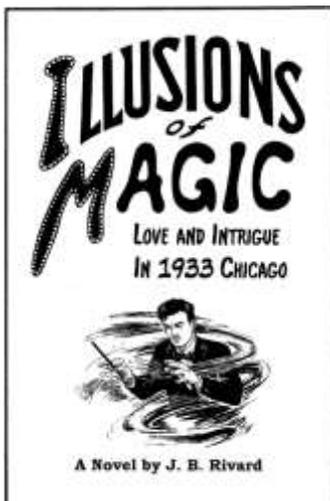

His broad background supports a wide array of significant publications, from short stories to song lyrics, from essays to novels. Most recently (with Anya Carlson), he's completed the screenplay adaptation of his novel, Illusions of Magic, and their book, Illusions of Magic: The Movie. He calls Spokane, Washington home.

Illusions of Magic:

Love and Intrigue in 1933 Chicago B01EGSC8N8 0996836306

A magician short of bookings
A banker with a secret
A woman missing for 20 years
In Illusions of Magic, a rich and devious banker engages magician Nick Zetner to retrieve compromising photos. Along the way, Nick regains a love he thought he'd forever lost. As Chicago reels from the fatal wounding of its mayor by a bullet meant for Franklin D. Roosevelt, love and duty clash, the quest risks Nick's magic . . . then turns deadly.

Illusions of Magic: The Movie B0751RL53G 0996836330

Illusions of Magic: The Movie merges the fictional adventures and love affair of a magician with true life drama--the shooting of Chicago Mayor Anton Cermak. From the gritty streets to the smoky back rooms where 1933 Chicago's future is to be decided, this rocket read unveils the magician's perilous quest and the excitement of his recovered love during Mayor Cermak's final nineteen days.

Using the "mind's eye," aural keys, and an easy-to-follow format, the text encourages a cinematic experience of the story taken from Rivard and Carlson's screenplay adaptation of the acclaimed novel.
