Julie Bergman

Julie Bergman is a retired military veteran who served her country for over 20 years. She lives in beautiful Spokane, Washington with her supportive husband, 4 wonderful children and a slobbery Olde English Bulldog with attitude. After over 17 years in the JAG Corp and a master's degree in Forensic Psychology, her fascination with crime and the dark side of humanity has spilled into a military based serial killer novel/series that you won't be able to put down.

Sex, Drugs and a Serial Killer found in the one place you would never expect!

Air Force Sergeant Evelyn “Mac” McGregor spends most of her time defending airmen who commit petty crimes. When she lands her first murder case, it appears to be an isolated incident—but the more she digs, the more bodies she finds.

She teams up with the handsome First Sergeant Gavin Hudson to have a better shot at catching the killer, but their relationship soon turns into something more.

When Mac's career and personal life are sabotaged, she discovers that the killer will do anything to throw her off his scent. No one will believe her unless she can reveal the killer's true identity. But that will prove an even more dangerous task than she expects. Will she be able to save the killer's next victim and her career?

An unputdownable military thriller about a serial killer gone wild, Sahar's Creation is the first book in Sergeant Evelyn (Mac) McGregor series for mature adults. It's an adventure full of murder, military, legal thriller with law enforcement and a touch of erotica and romance to keep things exciting. If you like fast-paced suspense that'll keep you on the edge of your seat and female leads that never rest, then you'll love this book/series by author Julie Bergman.
